VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The Orthodoxy of Principal Grant's Sermons Called in Question.

Phases of the Toller vs. May Case Which Are Argued Out of Court.

PRINCIPAL GRANT'S SERMON.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Having listened with much interest to the sermon delivered in St. Andrew's church, on Sunday evening last by Rev. Dr. Grant, owing to the great respect I entertain for his position and ability, I attempt with much diffidence a criticism of his doctrine. But yet as a believer in the absolute efficacy and saving power of faith in Christ; and the corresponding inefficacy of all things else, I wish to challenge some statements of the learned pulpiteer, which would certainly tend to lead men to depend less on Christ and more on their own good deeds, and to congratulate themselves more on what they had done for themselves than on what had been already done for them. In the first place, Dr. Grant affirmed that the great central truth of his text was this—that our eternal destiny depends upon our deeds of love to our fellow men. Now I claim that our eternal destiny depends on no such thing. I do not wish to depreciate good deeds, they are the beautiful fruits that hang upon the tree of life planted in every Christian, but we must carefully bear in mind that they are not the tree. Good and noble and philanthropic deeds should be the outcome of a soul's salvation, but the Bible clearly teaches us that they can never be the cause of our salvation. We might perhaps say that our eternal destiny depends on our good deeds as indicative of the faith within us, but certainly for no meritorious value in themselves, for it is not through works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us.

But again, Mr. Editor, the Principal asserted that all who contributed to the good of humanity in any such way as by the "gift of a park," or the "purification of water," or the "faithful discharge of civic duty," or "provision for the comfort of seamen," all these, he says, are Christians, and will at the end hear the words of commendation. And on the ground of what, we ask? On the ground of their motive, he said. And what was the motive as expressed by the preacher? Even this, a motive of love for his fellow men, untainted by any desire after self-glory or personal gain. The motive is stated not as love to Christ, but the all necessary thing seems to be love to one's fellow men. Now, Mr. Editor, I claim this to be diametrically opposed to the spirit of the gospel, for this would directly teach that these men, without faith in Christ, have won for themselves an eternal recompense. Nay, further, he taught that these philanthropic souls might be, and often were, all unconscious of the fact that they were doing Christian work—even with no intention of their honoring God, they are credited as if they had really wished to do so. This was clearly his meaning, as was manifest by his deduction that just as the evil we did our fellow men, though not directed against Christ, is yet punished as if it were, and, on the other hand, be the motive merely that of philanthropy, the good we do our fellow men, though not intended in God's favor, yet receives the same reward as if it were. What a comforting lesson this must have been to some good hearted philanthropist men, who are totally indifferent to the claims of Jesus Christ! And, moreover, it is difficult to discern the necessity for the Saviour's sacrifice, if by a life of interested love for fellow men our eternal happiness is made inevitable. And then again the learned divine assured us that the very philanthropic heathen whom he had seen in Japan, and who had never heard of Christ, was sure of salvation—and why? Not because he had never heard of Christ, but because he had done good. Now, if this be all that is necessary to secure the salvation of the heathen, why not teach them all to do good, rather than to believe, so as to win eternal life. It would be easier done and equally effective. Why, if this be the case, do we press the gospel on them at all, if their good deeds may be the ground of salvation. But, perhaps, the Principal would take the ground that to them good deeds is a substitute for faith; if it be a substitute with the heathen, why not with Englishmen, for its essential value in the eyes of divine justice must be ever the same. But, perhaps, he would plead that it tends to the development and perfection of their character; we reply that it would then serve for the perfection of Canadian character also, and besides would ask on what authority anyone can say that development will do for the character what Christ has died to purchase for it. Let me here quote the words of one who has in Canada no superior in ripeness of scholarship and clearness of thought and richness of scriptural erudition, the Rev. Principal Caven, of Knox College, Toronto. In an article of a couple of years ago, he says: "The Bible informs us that our sins are expiated by the death of the Lord Jesus Christ, and that we have acceptance and righteousness through Him alone; should the preacher make repentance, or good works, or any experience or virtue of ours the meritorious cause of salvation, he contravenes scripture; the preacher gives the lie to scripture should he maintain that, even in some instances, moral culture is sufficient for the development and perfection of virtuous character."

In conclusion, I am firmly of the opinion that if such a very accessible avenue to Heaven as our own good works had been possessed of efficacy, the Allwise One would not have permitted the suffering and death of His Son, had it not been the only way, the absolute channel of salvation, admitting of no substitute, of no improvement, and of no assistance at the hands of fellow men.

TOLLER & ROBINSON VS. MAY—TOLLER VS. MAY.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—The tone of Mr. E. M. Johnson's letter in Sunday's Colonist is such it is not entitled to a reply so far as I am personally concerned. In the interest of the public and the profession, however, it may be proper to point out that the introduction of rowdyism into legal affairs is likely to have the effect of leading respectable practitioners to withdraw from the courts. The profession of law is supposed to be one which a gentleman may engage in without loss of self respect, but scenes in court, such as that of last Thursday, tend to lower the dignity of the court, and to drive litigants of repute from its precincts. It seems rather strange that Mr. Johnson, an American citizen, should be allowed not only to hold an appointment as notary public, but also be allowed to appear in the county court with the result, last week, of converting it into a bear garden. Yours, etc., J. ROLAND HETT.

Resembles a Victoria Sensation.

Tacoma has a sensation on hand just now over the discovery of a dead woman in the room of Eugene Clark, a drug clerk. The woman's name was Hattie Case, a woman of low type and the prevailing opinion is that she committed suicide by shooting herself in the head. The day previous to the discovery of the body, Clark attempted to commit suicide by poisoning himself and suspicion has been created that he may have killed the woman. One witness in fact, named Thomas Weens makes the following statement: "I went to Clark's room Saturday night with Hattie Case. After we had retired Clark came in. When he saw us he picked up a revolver and ordered us out of the room. I got up and went out. Then, thinking it was a bluff, I returned and said to Clark: 'You wouldn't shoot anybody.' 'Won't I?' he replied, and with that he fired at the woman. She fell and I left." This story is not credited. The circumstances it is thought, do not sustain it.

VICTORIA ATHLETIC CLUB.

Its Progress and Present Status—The New Rooms.

On the 22nd of September, 1884, the first meeting of the Victoria Athletic Club was held in the hook and ladder house on Government street. At that time there was a membership of ten, among whom were Messrs. Thos. Deasy, W. H. Payne, F. Robinson, F. Finlay, J. Eersman and J. Alder.

Although starting in a small way, the club grew and prospered, gradually adding to its membership roll and becoming stronger financially. In its earlier days it had at times a hard struggle to keep alive and suffered many vicissitudes, but the determination of of a few of the members made a backbone for the body, and it weathered the storms of adversity and reached the present position it now holds as an institution.

A Times reporter was speaking with one of the charter members to day in reference to the club, and was told many instances of the early troubles of the organization. Once a picnic was arranged to raise funds for the club. Music was engaged and prizes offered, and the picnic was a success as a picnic, but in no other way, for when the expenses and receipts were totalled up it was found that a balance of ten cents only stood in favor of the club. But other entertainments paid better, and by means of these and cash subscribed by the members, a fair set of apparatus was purchased and the building on Yates street rented. Here the club had its gymnasium and rooms.

The club has during its existence turned out several men who become well known as athletes. Among them might be mentioned Watson, the champion runner; Geo. Edmonds, who has a good record as a professional trapeze performer, and who is now connected with a circus in Australia; W. H. Paine, the local sculler; the Shade brothers, and several others who have in a greater or less degree won fame as winners in athletics.

Of late the club has found that its old quarters were too circumscribed, and it was decided to get new rooms more central and better finished. Messrs. Breckman & Ker's new block appeared advantageous, and a lease was taken of the upper part of that building which is now being fitted up for the club's use, the whole upper story being taken. The main hall, or gymnasium, is 65 feet by 28 feet, lofty and well lighted. In it are the apparatus used by the members in their work, horizontal bars, trapeze, dumbells, Indian clubs, vaulting horses, rings and lifts of all sorts being provided.

At the Government street end of the hall is a comfortably furnished social room 18 by 28 feet. Here will be found sporting books and papers, while on the walls are pictures of athletes who have won distinction as well as many other scenes of sporting events. At the back end of the hall is a dressing room and bath room which are furnished in the best of style. All the apparatus in the gymnasium has been fitted with new rope while extra strong iron fastenings have been put up.

In about ten days the new premises will be opened and on the first night quite a celebration will be had of the event, it being the intention of the members to give a free public performance on that evening. The membership at present is 108 and 28 applications for new membership are now before the club, this showing that the position of the institution is solid.

The results of such an organization are too well known to need any explanation, as the benefits of good athletic exercise is acknowledged by every one, and it is a good evidence of the stamina and love of manly exhibitions of strength and agility of the young men of this city to see such a flourishing club here. Although starting in a small way the institution is at present one of the best on the coast.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

The Celebration at Westminster—Baseball at Kamloops.

The Montreal Gazette, under the above caption says: There is a good deal of local jealousy between the British Columbia cities, and it is now alleged that the real reason a team was not sent was because four out of the five places were captured by New Westminster, while Victoria controls the council. At all events the corporation or citizens of New Westminster, not to have their riflemen disappointed, arranged for having a portion of the very heavy expenses of the trip and four New Westminster men are accordingly to take part. These are Captain Scoullar, Lieut. Cotton, Private Prood and Private J. C. Chamberlain. The last three have only recently gone to British Columbia. Prood formerly shot with the 37th, Cotton with the Guards and Chamberlain with the 43d of this city. Probably the fact that there were so many eastern men at the top had as much to do with the refusal to send a team as the talked of local jealousy.

BASE BALL IN NEW WESTMINSTER.

The project of sending the Westminster base ball club to Kamloops, to take part in the tournament, was abandoned, as it was found impossible to gather together the old time champions. Some of the players have left the city and a few have bid a final adieu to the "diamond."

THE WESTMINSTER CELEBRATION.

Columbian: The executive members of the celebration committees met at the city hall last night and discussed topics of importance coming under their management. A letter was read from the Old Fellows society announcing that that order will take part in the procession. The programmes of the Scottish games, boating and horse racing committees were read and adopted. The committee having charge of the firemen's tournament asked an appropriation of $250, which was granted. It was announced that medals would be given the winners of the football and lacrosse matches. This was considered satisfactory. Messrs. D. S. Curtis, J. Reid and H. G. Ross were appointed a committee to arrange accommodation for visitors, and the meeting adjourned.

THE BRITISHERS AND BASEBALL.

The baseball club of this city has gone to Kamloops to show the Britisher how to play the national game. The gentlemen composing the team are Messrs. Lang, Riderback, H. Bracken, E. Brackon, Sisley, Pardee, Renfran and Boynton.—Port Townsend Argus. Judging from the result of the first game the "Britisher" has been a very apt pupil so far.

"JACK THE RIPPER."

The Whitechapel Fiend Revels in His Work of Butchery—Another Victim.

The Sea Leaves Its Place and Deluges the Land—Destructive Tidal Wave.

[By Postal Telegraph.]

London, Sept. 10.—At half past five this morning a policeman found the body of an abandoned woman in the corner of a railway arch spanning Cable street, Whitechapel. An examination of the body showed that the head and legs had been cut off and carried away and the stomach ripped open, leaving the bowels lying upon the ground. The police authorities immediately placed a cordon of officers around the spot, but no arrests were made. A policeman passed the place where the body was found every fifteen minutes throughout the night, but saw nothing to arouse suspicion. Physicians who examined the body believe that the murder occupied nearly an hour and surmised that the murderer carried the head and legs away in a bag.

The murder is the most horrible of the whole Whitechapel series. A dissection of the body shows that the perpetrator possessed considerable surgical skill.

The woman is about 30 years of age and was evidently addicted to the excessive use of spirits. The clothing is shabby and as yet she has not been identified.

The murder created tremendous excitement and a large crowd of agitated humanity surrounded the morgue, where the body was taken. Examination reveals the fact that there was no blood on the ground where the body was found, nor was there any indication of a struggle. This confirms the general belief that the woman was murdered in a house and her body taken to the spot where it was discovered. The trunk was nude and a torn and bloody chemise was lying near it. Experts are of the opinion that the woman was killed two days ago. Three sailors, subsequently to the discovery of the body, were found sleeping in an adjoining arch. They were arrested, but convinced the police that they had neither seen or heard anything of the murder or of the body lying near them and were discharged.

"SUNSET" COX DYING.

New York, Sept. 9.—Congressman S. S. Cox is dying of malarial fever at his residence, 13 East 12th street, this city. At noon all hope of his recovery was given up. His wife was prostrated with grief. Mr. Cox returned several weeks ago from a lecturing tour in Dakota and Washington Territory in his usual good health. Two weeks ago he went to Washington in the interest of one of his constituents and caught a cold, which was followed by malarial fever. It was not until yesterday that his illness assumed a dangerous phase.

Mr. Cox's condition this evening is not materially changed. He seems to rally at times, and the doctors think that a point for the better or worse will be reached within 12 hours. His chief symptoms are those of pneumonia. He retains his faculties, and wants to see the numerous people who call to enquire after him; but the doctors will not let him talk to or see any one. Mrs. Cox sent the following reply this evening to an inquiry from a friend in Washington: "Mr. Cox is slowly rallying, and hopes of recovery are increasing."

INCENDIARY FIRES.

Lancaster, Pa., Sept. 9.—Wrightsville, a small town on the Susquehanna, opposite Columbia, in this county, was a scene of terror last night, the police station and five barns being destroyed by incendiary fires. After the first fire a vigilance committee patrolled the place, but failed to prevent other fires. The last occurred early this morning, at which James Giefester, alias "Reddy" McIntyre, was seized on suspicion of being the incendiary, and was locked up in the burning building, from which, however, he succeeded in escaping. He was afterwards arrested on a charge of arson, and taken to the York county jail.

Tehama, Cal., Sept. 9.—A Chinese laundry, Chris Heider's livery stable, Ashbrook's private stables and Zorhorst's harness shop were destroyed by fire yesterday. After the fire was thought to be under control, it broke out on the opposite side of the street and destroyed the stores of S. A. Tyng's, Mrs. Green, I. B. Ashbrook's general merchandise store and several others. The total loss is estimated at over $2,450; insurance about $9,000.

Ossan Bassett has been arrested on suspicion of being the incendiary. Heider's hotel caught fire, but it was saved by hard work.

POLICE PROTECTION IN IRELAND.

London, Sept. 9.—The Irish police have been ordered to refrain from shadowing the English members of the House of Commons travelling in Ireland. This course is no longer considered necessary for their safety.

FRIGHTENED OF HIS LIFE.

Odessa, Sept. 9.—The Shah of Persia has relinquished his plan to visit Odessa before his return home. He is greatly alarmed at the recent railway accident, and has grown suspicious that it was not altogether an accident. He will on this account get out of Russia as quickly as possible and go direct to Persia.

A WOMAN THE CAUSE.

Tulare, Cala., Sept. 9.—At two o'clock this morning a young man named Chas. Campbell was shot several times by a Portuguese named Mannel, who in turn was stabbed in the face and had one hand nearly severed by Campbell. The altercation was over a woman of ill-repute and both men are believed to be fatally wounded.

WHIPPING NEGROES.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 9.—The whipping of 14 negroes by unknown men has created intense excitement here. The affair occurred at East Point late last night. Delegations have called on the governor and he has offered a reward for the capture of the perpetrators.

MONUMENT TO GRANT.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—A movement is on foot to erect a million dollar monument to General Grant and have his remains brought to this city. The monument is to be unveiled at the opening of the world's fair. The proposition meets with general enthusiastic approval.

HER BIRTHDAY.

San Francisco, Sept. 9.—To-day is the 39th anniversary of California's admission into the union. Business is generally suspended and the day is being quietly celebrated here.

THE COLLEGE FIGHT.

Toronto, Sept. 10.—Chief Justice Galt has delivered judgment declining to dissolve an injunction restraining the Victoria College senate from removing the college from Cobourg to Toronto.

MR. CHAPLEAU SPEAKS.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Hon. Mr. Chapleau, in addressing a large gathering at St. Xavier yesterday condemned Mr. Mercier for the manner in which he settled the question of the Jesuits' estates in wounding Protestant susceptibilities. He thought the equal rights movement would quickly die. He believed Mr. McCarthy's action was due to personal ambition; to think he was sincere was to doubt his intelligence.

DESTRUCTIVE WAVES.

The Shores of New York Devastated by Angry Waves.

New York, Sept. 10.—The greatest tide ever experienced struck Coney Island this morning and increased in volume and fury until past 8 o'clock. Great consternation reigned everywhere and the water poured in volumes underneath the Manhattan block hotel floor. The rooms were inundated fully a foot. All of the lamp posts which bordered the path next to the sea were literaly torn from their foundations. The concrete walk directly in front of a big building was undermined and torn away. The cellar of the hotel at 8 o'clock this morning had five feet of water in it. The land between Brighton and Manhattan has been eaten away and the ocean and Sheepshead Bay are connected by fully five feet of water extending to Sheepshead. The Manhattan and Oriental hotels stand by themselves on a little island that is fast being eaten away. The mammoth bathing pavilion belonging to Manhattan beach is being beaten down by thundering waves, and the old marine railway structure was carried away early to-day and taken with a crash over the new marine railway, 250 feet inland, carrying the latter away and bodily overturning and smashing cars like kindling wood. The old Brighton beach bathing pavilion followed it with a deafening crash and the driftwood was carried with lightning rapidity and herculean force against the new boat house, tearing part of that away.

Brighton beach hotel is surrounded by over two feet of water. Fully 100 feet of lawn in front of the hotel has been eaten away from indications will be gone before night. Brighton Beach Ry. is submerged. No trains are running. Angry waves dashed against Blidel's music stand, each wave tearing away great chunks of it every burst. There is no land between it and the sea and mountainous waves thundered and washed against it free of obstruction, and all efforts to save the structure have been abandoned.

The little children's society cottage has given away, the waves breaking under the railroad station, and fears are entertained for its safety. Brighton Beach is nearly all under water. The race course is two feet deep with water and jockeys and stablemen are panic stricken. Kearn's hotel is surrounded by salt, which reached the borders of the hotel which was far back from the sea.

The entire concourse is inundated and the concrete pavement torn up, the main road by the concourse is submerged and nearly every street within 5000 feet of beach flooded. No such tide has ever been experienced in the history of the island.

The great wave made its first appearance at 6 o'clock this morning. The wind at the time was blowing a hurricane off shore. As the morning advanced the wind increased, lashing the ocean into fury. Following the first great wave, came gigantic swells sweeping and rolling in in rapid succession.

The damage by the storm along the water front here is very great. Along South street and West street nearly all the cellars are flooded and goods destroyed in many warehouses.

ROYALTY'S DOINGS.

Edmund Yates Discourses on Various Blue Blood Matters.

London, Sept. 10.—Edmund Yates' cable letter says:

The appointment to command the royal yacht Osborne has not yet been filled, though it is no secret that Prince Louis of Battenburg has been persuaded to preside over it.

We may hear any day after the German autumn manœuvers are over that the Czar has left Friensburg for Potsdam. The uncertainty and mystery about his visit are due to the fact that rumors recently reached St. Petersburg of a plot to assassinate His Majesty, who consequently is in a state of alarm.

The Emperor of Austria and the Archduke and his relatives would have been nearly mad, I am told, if the Shah had stopped in their country for another week. His ostentatious indifference was regarded in Vienna and Pesth as a downright insult.

Prince Albert Victor is to attend the German autumn manœuvres next year, and also those of the Austro-Hungarian army.

The Duchess of Cumberland arrived at Schloss on a visit to the Queen of Denmark. This is the first visit the Duchess has made to Denmark for several years.

I hear from Copenhagen that there have been some stirring scenes at Fredenburgh bridge since the arrival of the Czar, who has been rendered furious by the projected betrothal of Prince Christian to Princess Margaret, the youngest sister of Emperor William.

QUEEN'S COUNSELS.

Premier Mowat to Again Test Federal Rights.

Toronto, Sept. 10—The question whether the federal or provincial governments have the right to the appointment of Queen's counsels, says the Mail yesterday morning, is at last likely to be determined. Premier Mowat, of Ontario, is said to be considering a case that will bring the matter to an issue.

Although of special interest for the legal profession, the subject is one of far wider importance, involving questions of Local and federal jurisdiction under the British North America Act, and of great moment to all the provinces of the Dominion.

Marital Troubles.

A divorce lawyer of large experience is quoted as saying that he does not think, from his knowledge of marital troubles, that many men are intentionally cruel or even neglectful of their wives. It comes simply from giant selfishness. He said: "Nothing can be thought of as original in selfishness; everything has been thought of in that line that can be done." This is a rather hard saying. And yet the true history of many happy homes, and of troubles which lead to divorce courts, would probably verify the judgment. A great many men who are generous with their money are selfish of themselves. They think first of their own pleasure and comfort. The habit of self-sacrifice or self-denial is utterly foreign to them. Their idea of marital obligations is to maintain the establishment and pay the bills. If they find pleasure at the clubs, the hotel, or any other resort, they do not stop to ask what the pleasure of their wives may be. Everything must give way to their enjoyment. There are selfish women, but it is not a characteristic vice of their sex. They are not naturally selfish of themselves. The failing is usually in the other direction; they give everything for love, and much for duty. If nothing can be thought of as original in the selfishness of men, no more can anything new be conceived of in the devotion of women. It is a thousand pities that so much of this is rewarded with the unintentional cruelty of "giant selfishness."

LIKELY A CANARD.

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—News received from Selkirk yesterday regarding the drowning of some mill hands and the Rev. Mr. McHaffie in Lake Winnipeg, would indicate strongly to be a canard. One boat reached Selkirk yesterday afternoon, bring information that the other boats had been left at Drunken point on Thursday.

It is the intention of the government to make a complete change of the present customs system along the boundary. From McLeod Mr. Bowell will go to Calgary and thence proceed to the coast.

Special to The Times.]

About 500 people to-day witnessed the first game for a $300 prize, open to all, between the Townsends and Amities.

The weather was bitter cold, everybody wearing overcoats and gloves. The Townsends were first to the bat, and scored one run on a passed ball and wild pitching. The Amities were blanked in the first inning, but in the second Jiggo and Borthwick crossed the plate.

In the third Lange made a two bagger, took third on a wild throw of Jiggs and scored on Boynton's hit. This was the last run the Townsends were to have. The boys were by this time warmed up to their work and goose egg succeeded goose egg till the last half of the ninth, when Duck crossed the home plate amid the cheers of the Victoria boys.

The features of the game were the batting of Tom Parrett and his catch of a high drive on first. Amity-Townsend game, score, Amities 3 to Townsend 2, Time of game, hour 40 minutes. Struck out, Griggs Parrett, 18; Riderback, 9. Two base hits, Boynton and Lange. Passed balls, Borthwick, 1; Lange, 3; Errors, Amities, 1; Townsends, 5. Base hits, Amities, 6; Townsend, 3. Umpire, Knox.

SECOND GAME.

The second game Vancouver played a bellows game and retired after the fifth innings. Score—Kamloops, 10; Vancouver, 0.

Vancouver will probably withdraw from the contest.

O'CONNOR'S DEFEAT.

Falls Like a Thunderbolt on His Friends in Toronto.

Special to The Times.]

Toronto, Sept. 10.—The news of the defeat of O'Connor fell like a thunderclap here. Ever since Hanlan won the cup for Canada, the Queen City has been the schooling place for oarsmen, local sports endeavoring to bring out another man who would excel Hanlan, Beach and all others. They found their man in O'Connor. His easy victory over Teemer, Gaudaur and other American scullers greatly strengthened this confidence, and when O'Connor started for England their expectations of a complete victory were most sanguine. There was great excitement over the result, and special editions of several papers were on the streets by ten o'clock. It is estimated that Toronto men dropped fully $30,000.

THE NEW CHINA STEAMERS.

To be Delivered in 18 Months—Cost, One Million Each.

Special to The Times.]

Montreal, Sept. 10.—F. G. Shaughnessy, general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been appointed assistant president. He leaves for England to day to contract for three steamers of 5500 tons to steam 18 knots per hour, for the Pacific mail service for China and Japan. They are to be the same model and design as the North German Lloyd steamer Lahn, and to cost $1,000,000 a piece and to be delivered at Vancouver in 18 months. Van Horne says that nothing short of universal disaster will prevent the company from earning twenty million dollars next year, eight millions net, or equal to 6 per cent on the capital.

LOOKING TO KOOTENAY.

The Mackay Combination Seeking Investments.

Messrs. P. Kerwin, superintendent of the Gould and Curry and Best and Belcher mines, and George R. Wells, secretary of the Comstock, at Virginia City, were in Spokane Falls last week, on their way from the Kootenay country to San Francisco. They had been inspecting the Hall mine and others, with a view of making investments for the Mackay combination. They were close mouthed people, and it is not known what their recommendation will be, but it is known that the owners of the Hall are not particularly anxious to sell, as it is understood that they have been tempted with offers in the neighborhood of half a million. The Kootenay prospectors, however, are very hopeful, on account of the probability of enlisting some of the Mackay capital in that country, as it would signify large investments and rapid development.

John McDonald, secretary of the Silver King, in Kootenay district, reports that the last shipment of forty tons gave them $300 in silver and thirty per cent copper, also $4 gold to the ton.

ROCK CREEK AND OKANAGAN.

It is evident from the nature of Mr. STEPHENSON's observations on the Rock Creek-Okanagan districts, published in yesterday's TIMES, that the mines in that locality have reached a stage of development which warrant attention. As matters stand at present in relation to those districts, what benefit there is being derived from them is wholly diverted to the American side. Rock Creek and Okanagan, so far as their trade materially affects Victoria, or any of the other cities of the province, might as well be situate on Lake Nyanza as in the vicinity of Okanagan. It is not, unlikely that the northern latitudes of the province contain rich mineral deposits, but as a current knowledge in this respect is limited to conjecture, manifestly the localities which should engross a great part of our attention are those which are really panning out something. There is a double object, however, in developing and securing the trade of the Okanagan region. In the first place, it is business; and in the second place, failing to do so, Okanagan and its environs practically become tributary to the U. S. Unquestionably if the Americans once fairly get established in Okanagan, the only way they can be made to relax their grip is to patch up the tariff to meet the exigencies of the British Columbia trade. It follows as clearly as day follows night, that with an enterprising people to the south of us, a people sanguine, and indefatigable in pursuit of wealth, a people who will strain their credit to develop industries which promise (not assure) a margin of profit, that if we propose to secure the trade of the province which borders on Washington Territory, we must put forth an effort. Engineers have reported favorably on the agricultural and mining prospects of the Okanagan. Farmers, stock men and practical miners have echoed the same language, and yet Okanagan is as remote from the centre of provincial trade as it was thirty years ago. The Americans have found virtue in this region. Already a business has sprung up in that section which requires two steamers a week to furnish supplies, and these are landed sixty-four miles distant from the mines. If the railway was built from Sicamous, supplies by this route via Lake Okanagan could be laid down within twenty miles of the mines, which distance could be covered by the extension of the S. & O. Spokane Falls has been built up by the remote outlying mining districts bordering on and lying this side of the 49th parallel. Nine years ago the prospects of that town were no better than those of Kamloops or Revelstoke, but owing to push, energy, a disposition to risk a dollar on the representations of practical men, the town has grown to a population twice the size of Victoria, and has been able to stand a $6,000,000 fire. The same amount of energy on this side of the line would have produced similar results. Had the development of the Okanagan been seriously undertaken three years ago, as should have been done, there would now be thriving towns where now are mere hamlets, and Victoria as the entrepot of the wholesale trade would have been materially benefitted. We have no hesitation in saying that when we do more, unless it is done shortly, it will be too late. The Americans, once their trade connections are established, cannot be driven off without straining a point in the matter of tariff, and remembering the utterances of the board of trade this is a contingency which we cannot safely reckon on. The interests of the province require that the Okanagan should be made accessible by rail and steamer. We owe it to ourselves to establish business relations with that portion of the province. The coast cities will discover perhaps too late that their true interests lie in the development of the interior.

FAME AND FOOLISHNESS.

The craving for notoriety in these days has become a disease. It is even asserted that certain startling crimes are committed because their perpetrators long to see their name in print. Foolish men jump from high bridges, shoot rock river rapids or enter an "onion-eating match" in order to gain an ephemeral fame. School girls publish poems of passion with a like motive, and men tamper with honesty that they may pose as Napoleons of finance. Emphasis is given to these striking facts by the recent death of a colored man at Yorkville, South Carolina. He had gained a reputation as an egg eater, and he gloried in the same. To his mind the road to fortune lay in maintaining his position as a destroyer of the valued product of a hen. Thus was it that he wagered a dollar that he could eat eighty-four fried eggs at one meal. Now, there is nothing essentially pernicious about a fried egg. It has been known at times to fill a long felt want. When fresh and well prepared even kings have found its flavor worthy of a royal palate. But the fried egg habit may become, if carried to extremes, as fatal as indulgence in morphine or in the Elixir of Youth. This the Yorkville darkey discovered much too late. He ate his eighty-four eggs, won his wager and died. Is there not in his fate a suggestion to men who think the road to glory lies through the stomach or through any form of mere foolishness? The performer of insane prodigies is forgotten when the next candidate for fame becomes his own fool killer. A little less notoriety, with a clearer conscience or a longer lease of life, would seem to be the better choice for even seeking cranks.

THE COURT AND PARLIAMENT.

Absent the statements made by Mr. SMITH during the recent debates upon royal grants, a correspondent points out that it has not always been the habit of the Court to treat the House of Commons with candor, and he cites the following letter from Her Majesty to Lord Aberdeen when he was Prime minister.

"The Queen hopes that in vindication of his conduct to-day, which ought to be triumphant, as it wants in fact no vindication, he will not undertake the ungrateful and injurious task of vindicating the Emperor of Russia from any of the exaggerated charges brought against him and his policy, at a time when there is enough in that policy to make us fight with all our might against it."

Is it to be wondered at (continues my correspondent) that "Verax" in the "Crown and Cabinet" page 219, says of this letter "I make no comments on these remarks, my loyalty forbids." LABOUCHERE in Truth.

"Verax" is generally understood to be the father-in-law of Mr. WM. ANGUS, of Victoria.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The feat of the steamship City of Paris in twice beating in a single year the best previous record for a transatlantic trip is something unparalleled in the history of ocean travel. The Etruria twice made fastest records, but the second fast trip was three years behind the first. Only once before, moreover, has the record been twice beaten in one year.

Montreal Herald: If the proceedings of the Police Committee have been accurately reported, a Montreal policeman has permission to get drunk only once—instead of twice, as under Colonel Hughes' rules—without being dismissed from the force. This one drunk, or two until now, appears to be thought necessary, because the men are not angels. Perhaps it is as well they are not.

Oregonian: The Ancon, it is said, was rotten and unseaworthy, a statement which the rapidity with which she went to pieces corroborates. It is fortunate indeed that the disaster did not occur, as in the case of the steamer Pacific, off Cape Flattery, a few years ago, or in that of the Brother Jonathan some time before, at a point where it was impossible to land passengers. Both of these vessels were, like the Ancon, old rotten hulks that the water, when once it found an entrance, soon broke to pieces and sent to the bottom, carrying crew and passengers into the depths with them. Since the Ancon was unseaworthy from age and long use it is well that she went down when and where she did. Disaster is constantly impending over such vessels and humanity may congratulate itself when one such goes down without loss of life.

The Westminster Truth man, if his confessions are to be taken verbatim et literatim, labors under extraordinary and unique disadvantages as a journalist in the town on the Fraser. In the first place, he is a Yankee, and in the second place, dog Tray like, he suffers of having matriculated as a newspaper man at Donald. Thirdly, the good people of the Royal City are in doubt as to his orthodoxy; and in the fourth place, (a common complaint) there are subscribers who don't want the Truth if they have to pay for it. These statements carry the color of exaggeration, but there is a great deal of truth in them just the same. The public is apt to judge of a newspaper not by what the character of the publication really is, but by the supposed character of the publisher, and a most egregious mistake it is too. Newspapers, as a rule, are not the vehicles of the foibles of their editors, nor can they be made to run parallel with the prejudices of the public. A newspaper is just what the word signifies, disseminator of news, tempered here and there by the discussion of public questions, sometimes the echo of private opinion, sometimes not. The subscriber who expects the newspaper to voice his peculiar prejudices, simply misconceives the primary object of journalism. A newspaper, per se, is cosmopolitan. It may have a bias, but it must deal with all legitimate subjects fairly; the editor, in fact, practically drops his individuality. Probably the best thing the Truth can do is to essay a provincialism commensurate with the exigencies of its environment.

COLUMBUS, we are informed, discovered America. Well, possibly he did, but the fact of the matter is America had been discovered by some roving Norsemen several hundred years previous to 1492. COLUMBUS when he left Palos had no idea that he would discover a new world, and that from the fact that he must have known that a continent or an island existed to the westward of Europe. The legends of the Norsemen to the effect that land lay to the west and that it had been explored as far south as Long Island Sound, had in 1400 penetrated to Southern Europe, and COLUMBUS was familiar with them. The problem which COLUMBUS had to solve was the rotundity of the earth. The fact that the continent of America existed and had been visited by Norsemen proved nothing. The North American continent could exist, and yet the world be flat. COLUMBUS, therefore, on leaving Palos simply took the western route to India. If he reached India he established his position as a philosopher; failing, he remained simply in the estimation of the Spaniards, an adventurous and lucky navigator. COLUMBUS died in practical ignorance of the truth of the theory he so indomitably undertook to demonstrate. Had COLUMBUS been less of the philosopher and more of the tyrant and freebooter as distinguished PIZZARO and CORTEZ, he would have accomplished more than he did and died, probably, surrounded by all of the luxury of wealth. His philosophy and his integrity, however, could not save him the envy of his contemporaries. His sovereign, jealous of him, listened but too readily to the testimony of men who scrupled at nothing to secure private ends. COLUMBUS fell a victim to the cabals of his subordinate officers, and probably it is the recollection of his miserable end which prompts posterity to attribute to his discoveries more value than they really possessed.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

—Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach.

—The most conclusive testimony, repeatedly laid before the public in the columns of the daily press, proves that Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil—an absolutely pure combination of six of the finest remedial oils in existence—remedies rheumatic pain, eradicates affections of the throat and lungs, and cures piles, wounds, sores, lameness, tumors, burns, and injuries of horses and cattle.

—Robert Lubbuck, Cedar Rapids, writes: "I have used Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil both for myself and family for Diphtheria with the very best results. I regard it as the best remedy for this disease, and would use no other."

Kootenay in Two Independent Districts—Hornets in School.

From the Kootenay Star:

The weather is clear, cool and beautiful, and as soon as it warms up a little it will be just what the miners have been wishing for to enable them to do their fall prospecting.

The pack train, as usual, was heavily loaded on the trip out last Monday. Hume seems to be sending lots of goods to the Big Bend.

A boom in prospecting for gold quartz in the direction of Big Bend has struck in. Angus McKay, Charles Drouin, Andrew Whalen and Mike Grady went out on the trail the first of the week.

Judge A. W. Vowell went down on the Marion last Monday for the purpose of closing up certain official matters at Nelson, made necessary by the division of Kootenay district into two independent districts. He returned on the steamer which arrived on Friday noon.

One day this week the teacher of the Revelstoke school put on the first fire of the season. The heat limbered up a lot of hornets that nested above, and they swarmed down, viciously attacking teacher and children, stinging over fifteen. In less than ten seconds confusion reigned, the children rushing about and screaming "I'm stung," and the teacher taking in the situation threw open the door and dismissed the school without further ceremony.

PROCLAMATION.

NOTICE

IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHANCELLOR Browning, Commissioner for the C. P. R., has this the 20th day of July, 1889, issued a proclamation warning all persons from purchasing lots from Samuel Greer in Lot 526, Group One. Now, may it please Your Lordship, I have never offered for sale any lots in said Lot 526, for that would be deception on the public, as the highest legal authority in British Columbia pronounced the title to that lot strawy; one cent was no consideration having been given. Now, if Your Lordship will adjust your wig and recover from your deep studies of Blackstone and the laws of octoppal, you will be able to see that the four Justices who threw your case out of Court last April were fully able to comprehend the difference between 526 and Pre-emption Record 1035, this being the RESIDENCE of my land on English Bay. Come down and see us. I have a few corner lots with a smattering of coal yet left. I mean to sell, and the public will persist in buying them, notwithstanding Your Lordship's decision. Things will move just the same at English Bay.

All parties are hereby warned that Agnes and Smith have no title to Lot 526 till confirmed by the Legislature, and all sales will be void.

ROSS-McLAREN SAW MILLS.

One of the Largest Enterprises on the Fraser River.

The new Ross-McLaren mills which have been erected, and are in course of completion near New Westminster, are one of the largest lumber cutting establishments in the west. A visitor to the mills is at once impressed with the proportions of the immense building, which is for a hundred and fifty feet long, seventy-two feet wide and contains two stories. The lower story is sixteen feet from floor to ceiling and the posts which support the ceiling are fifteen inches square. Of these posts there are five rows in the length of the building and thirty-six rows in the cross section. The upper floor is one large room unbroken by a post from one end to the other, the roof being supported entirely by truss work. A clear space is thus provided for the machines, and there is nothing to in the slightest degree to impede the men in their work.

The machinery which will be put in will be of the most improved and perfect kind. There will be one double circular saw, one hand saw, and one iron frame gang. There will be three engines, 1400. The foundations of these will be of the most solid and enduring character. Piles have been sunk into the ground from eight to thirteen feet, and on these will be built a solid stone flooring several feet in height. On this in turn will be built a heavy flooring of wood, and on it will be placed the machines. The machines will be held to the foundations with anchor bolts from one and a half to two and a half inches in diameter. The boiler house, which is separated from the mill proper, is a very substantial structure. The walls, which are of stone, are sixteen feet in height and two feet in thickness. The covering will be of iron. In this building there will be ten boilers, each five by fourteen feet, and with fifty-four four-inch tubes. Just north of this is the refuse burner, twenty-six feet in diameter and one hundred and forty feet high. The boilers, refuse burner and engines, will be supplied by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, of Peterboro', Ont.

Several improvements have been made in the manner of "booming" the logs, one by which much lumber is saved is noticeable, an endless chain being used instead of the ordinary "day." The fresh water in which the logs are stored is also a preventive of teredo and barnacles.

When everything is in working order it will be an interesting sight to stand on the second floor of the building and see a huge stick of timber pass through all the transformations it will undergo from the time it enters at one end in its natural state till it comes out at the other in the shape of lumber for shipment. The log will come in at the eastern end of the mill and pass lengthwise through the different machines till it reaches the west end. Here it is, by automatic machinery, transferred sideways and passed out of the mill over roller tables. One board of 60 feet long could be cut into 20 different lengths. All the dimension timber passes lengthwise on to a platform at the west end of the mill and can from thence be transferred to either ship or car. The capacity of the mill will be about one hundred and fifty thousand feet per day.

From Alberni.

Mr. Armstrong, the Alberni mail carrier, arrived last evening, having succeeded in making his way across.

A man was seen at Alberni, and is supposed to be there now, who is thought to be Northway, the embezzler from Seattle. He is described as follows: Brown whiskers, slightly gray on chin; hair slightly curly; high forehead; weighs about 170 pounds; light complexion; rather reserved in communication; cleanly in habits; appeared rather cultivated in manner and conversation.

The crops throughout the district have turned out excellent. Heavy and continuous rains visited the settlement.

Mr. Frank McQuillon obtained two young mountain lions from an Indian, and they are as tame and playful as kittens.

The road is still in a bad condition, in several places it being necessary to pick your own track in the woods.—Free Press.

A Woman at the Bottom of It.

Having duly discharged at a British port the prize crew of one, in whose charge it was placed to be taken to a United States port, the Black Diamond has set sail again, and is now sailing the ocean blue in quest of the animals whose skins are required for the purpose of adorning the fashionable women of the world. The seals taken in Behring Sea are sent to England to be prepared and colored before they can be made into seal skin sacques. It is a rather solemn reflection that the exigencies of fashion may result in bringing about international complications between the two great branches of the English speaking race—simply another illustration of the proverbial saying that at the bottom of every trouble there is sure to be a woman. It is beginning to look as if the repeated seizures by American revenue cutters of vessels found taking seals in Behring sea were only a make-believe, the object of which is to frighten off interlopers and keep the sea a preserve for the American company, composed largely of Germans in the Fatherland, which has been granted by the United States Congress a monopoly of seal fishing in that vast region. The chief object of the American revenue cutter appears to be to confiscate all the seal skins found on board the interloping vessels, which is much the easiest way of getting them.—Montreal Star.

The Ravages of the Tiger.

According to the administration report of Java recently laid before the Dutch chambers, portions of that island are being depopulated through the tigers. In 1882, the population of a village in the southwest of the Bantam province was removed and transferred to an island off the coast in consequence of the trouble caused to the people by tigers. These animals have now become an intolerable pest in parts of the same province. The total population is about 800,000, and in 1887 sixty-one were killed by tigers, and in consequence of the dread existing among the people, it has been proposed to deport the inhabitants of the villages most threatened to other parts of the country where tigers are not so common, and where they can pursue their agricultural occupations with a greater degree of safety.

At present they fear to go anywhere near the borders of the forest. The people at present seem distinctified, or they lack the means and courage, to attack and destroy their enemy, although considerable rewards are offered by the government for the destruction of beasts of prey. In 1888 the reward for killing a royal tiger was raised to 200 florins. It appears also that the immunity of the tiger is in part due to superstition, for it is considered wrong to kill one unless he attacks first or otherwise does injury. Moreover, guns were always very rare in this particular district, and, since a rising a few years ago, have been taken away by the authorities altogether.—Exchange.

Clothing a Ship in Steel.

Two or three months or less after the completion of the fairing the ship is probably in frame and looks like the skeleton of some Brobdignagian monster that has stranded on the bank of the river. The ribs have been hoisted into position at right angles with the keel, and strung together by rib bands, and already there are signs of the coming subdivision by decks and bulkheads of the hollow space within. You can still see through her, however; she is like, to make yet another comparison, a great oblong wicker basket, the supple willows being represented by the network of steel. The next step is the clothing of ribs with plates.

As they reach the yard the plates are square and flat, but they are passed through rollers of various kinds, from which they issue in any shape desired—hollowed like a spoon, curved lengthwise or breadthwise or diagonally, as the contour of the ship may call for. A steam or hydraulic plane smooths them down as though they were the softest of white wood; another machine trims the edges as easily as a woman cuts silk with a pair of scissors. Then, suspended by iron chains, they are thrust between the jaws of a punching machine, which has resemblance to a sinister human face with a flat nose, a long upper lip and a small chin. The jaws close upon them and bite out, ten at a time, the holes for the rivets by which they are to be fastened to the frame.—Scribner's.

Thousands of Cats.

"When I was living in a steamboat town on the Mississippi," remarked an old man in a barber's shop a few days ago, "there was a fellow who put up a very neat job on the inhabitants, against whom he must have had a terrible grudge. He came into the town one day and distributed hand bills right and left, taking special pains to put as many as possible into the hands of farmers who come to sell their grain. That was before the railroads came to take business away from the river towns, some of which had an immense trade.

"The place I was in had 5,000 or 6,000 inhabitants, and was the shipping port for all the grain raised for miles around, as well as the place where the farmers obtained all their supplies. The last time I was there it had dwindled down to a village of 2,000, and perhaps by this time it has no existence at all, even on the map. These bills that were so freely scattered about stated that the advertiser had a contract with a certain steamboat company for furnishing a large number of cats to destroy the rats and mice that were very numerous about the warehouses at different landings along the river. He therefore offered $3 for each full grown tom cat, $2 for each healthy female puss, and 50 cents a head for kittens old enough to get their own living. All the cats were to be delivered at a certain place in the town on a Thursday evening—the night that a particular boat was due.

"Well, that Thursday afternoon came, and all the streets of the town were just crowded with people. They came in wagons, on foot, and on horseback, and every person carried a sack, some of them several. By evening between 3,000 and 4,000 cats had been brought into that defenseless city. They were left in and about a vacant building near the landing. The man who was to purchase the cats was nowhere in sight. The country people were making inquiries for him everywhere. A crowd of boys, attracted by the caterwauling, went into the building and began amusing themselves by untying the bags and letting out the cats. Of course the cats began fighting and raised a noise like 10,000 demons.

"Suddenly a stampede occurred and the animals rushed pell mell into the crowd, crawling over people, jumping and fighting, and climbing walls and roofs in a mad race for liberty. The boys took after the cats, and the men joined in, determined to rid the town of the feline invaders. The next morning there was a good many stray cats seen about in back yards, and a good many dead ones lying in the streets and alleys. One boatman said he counted 400 dead cats in the river. The man who perpetrated the joke was never again seen in the place, luckily for him."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Wonderful Tribe.

A remarkable story is told in a recent issue of The Paris Societe de Geographie records. M. Camille Douls recounts the experience he underwent in a journey in northwestern Africa. Disguised as a native, it appears, he landed on the west coast near Cape Garnet, several hundred miles south of Morocco, pretending to the people of that region that he had been shipwrecked. At first he was roughly dealt with; but finally he gained the confidence of his captors, and, after five months' wanderings, by dint of craft he made his way to Morocco. Here his disguise was discovered, and he was thrown into prison—to be released presently at the instigation of the British minister.

The adventures recorded are of interest, as they give a new version to the popular story of the great desert. The Oulad Delim, into whose hands M. Douls fell, he says, are unusually intelligent. They speak a pure Arabic, founded upon the constant study of the Koran. They are monogamous, and treat their wives with the greatest affection and respect as equals of the men. The girls share the education of the boys, learning to read and write with them; hence, the women show an intellectual and moral elevation far beyond that of any other Moslem women.—The St. James Gazette.

A Lover's Dream.

A girl at Hackney, aged 19, with her two brothers and a younger sister, were left in charge of the house while their parents attended a funeral in the country. In the evening the girl's sweetheart called. As she was alarmed at noises which she fancied she heard, he stayed at the house all night to reassure her. During the night he dreamed that he saw the girl walk past him, beckoning him to follow. He awoke, and, becoming alarmed, went into the passage. Having dressed, he went to the door of deceased's room and knocked. Receiving no answer he then awoke the others. On the bedroom door being opened deceased was found lying on the floor, with blood issuing from her mouth. From a doctor's examination it would seem that the girl died at about the time that her sweetheart dreamed she beckoned him.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Rapidity of Pulsation.

In a new born child the pulse beats 150 in a minute; at one year old, 110; at two, 95; from seven to fourteen, 85; in the adult man, 72, and in the woman, 80. The frequency of the pulse beat is increased by drinking hot water or tea, diminished by drinking these cold. Adding a warm covering to the clothing of the body increases the pulse by about ten beats a minute. Mental activity diminishes it more or less.—New York Telegram.

ONLY.

Something to live for came to the place,
Something to die for, may be,
Something to give wan sorrow a grace,
And yet it was only a baby.

Cooing, and laughter, and gurgles, and cries,
Dimples for tenderest kisses,
Chaos of hopes, and of raptures and sighs,
Chaos of fears and of blisses.

Last year, the oil years, the rose and the thorn,
This year, a wilderness, may be;
But heaven stooped under the roof on the morn
That it brought there only a baby.

SUICIDE BY HARA-KIRI.

Story of an Eye-Witness to the Ghastly Japanese Punishment.

Hara-kiri as a legal form of punishment has been abolished in Japan for about twenty-five years. Prior to that time a class of political offenders of high rank or title were allowed the choice of the headsman's sword or suicide. This was a concession to caste that was meant to remove the disgrace of an execution at the hands of the law. "Hara-kiri" signifies "cut-belly" or, if the words are arranged as in the Japanese term, "belly-cut." The usual method of self-murder contemplated by hari-kiri was for the victim to drive a long, broad and very sharp blade into his abdomen and draw it across his body in a manner that would disembowel him. Instant death was usually the result.

An officer in the army of one of the feudal princes was the last person to commit an official hara-kiri. He hated all foreigners with a patriotic bitterness, and in a hot-headed outburst of temper one day ordered his soldiers to fire on some Europeans who were crossing the street. The British Ambassador, Sir Harry Parkes, was on the scene and had a narrow escape, while some were killed. The representatives of the foreign powers demanded the summary punishment of the young officer. The Prince yielded to the demand and the offender was condemned to death. He chose the alternative of hara-kiri. Mr. J. A. R. Walters, a mining engineer of Chicago, then living in Japan, thus tells the story of the execution:

"Representatives of the foreign powers were invited to be present," said Mr. Waters, "and witness the execution. Through the courtesy of a member of the British legation I was one of the witnesses. The execution took place in a large, gloomy, half-lighted Buddhist temple. The ceremony was conducted with the rigid formality and decorum of a religious rite. On one side was the foreigners, pale as ghosts, breathing in gasps and trembling with excitement. The dim light and dank air gave a supernatural, uncanny thrill to the scene. Opposite were the Japanese officials, unflinching as stoics, as unmoved as statues. In front on a low dais was the condemned man. He sat tailor-fashion, bared to the waste, a brawny fellow with muscular arms, and deep-chested as an ox. On a low table near him was a Japanese short-sword with a blade nine or ten inches long and keen as a razor. Behind him stood his best friend—the condemned being allowed to select some one to strike off his head in the event he failed to kill himself and was liable to suffer a prolonged agony before death came. The man was apparently the only agitated native in the temple. The muscles of his face twitched. He clutched the broad sword nervously with both hands, waiting for the moment that should demand his services.

"The condemned was the coolest man present. Through an interpreter he said he was not sorry for what he had done for his beloved country. He was proud to give his life for her. He would show the coward foreigners how a Japanese gentleman could die. As he finished his speech he picked up the knife. A moment later he plunged it to the hilt in the left side of his abdomen. He paused an instant, but it seemed an hour to us white-faced, shivering Englishmen, as we held our breaths. Then, with a powerful effort, he pulled the blade across his body, the blood gushing from the long gash in a torrent. Either from pain or purposely, he leaned his head slightly forward. A swish of the sword behind him and his head leaped from the body to the floor in front of him.

"The Japanese had not apparently moved a muscle through all this ghastly scene. A pleasant-voiced dignitary arose and said he hoped he had proved that Japanese justice would be vindicated and asked if the foreign representatives were satisfied. The British Ambassador simply nodded an affirmative and the shuddering witnesses of the hara-kiri hurried with bloodless features into the open air.

"I was long haunted by that dread scene, and ever and anon it would rise before me—the dark and gloomy temple, the impassive Japanese, the awe-stricken foreigners, and, above all, the faces of the principal actors, the condemned man and his closest friend; the one calmly content, even proud to give up his life, the other crouching behind him, watching with a deadly intensity, pale and anxious, fearful, perhaps, of bungling at the supreme moment. It looms up clearly before me yet, although years have gone by."—Chicago News.

All Had the Same Dream.

It is a most singular fact that under certain combined conditions of fatigue, discomfort and malaria whole bodies of men—such as companies of soldiers—have been seized by the same terrific dream, and have been awakened simultaneously shrieking with terror. Such an instance is related by Laurent, when, after a forced march, eight hundred French soldiers were packed in a ruined Calabrian monastery which could ill accommodate half that number. At midnight frightful cries issued from every corner of the building as frightened men rushed from it, each declaring that it was the abode of the evil one, that they had seen him in the form of a big black dog, which threw himself upon their breasts for an instant and then disappeared. The men were persuaded to return to the same shelter on the next night, their officers promising to keep watch beside them. Shortly after midnight the same scene was re-enacted—the same cries, the same flight, as the soldiers rushed forth in a body to escape the suffocating embrace of the black dog. The wakeful officers had seen nothing.—Argosy.

The Newspaper Deadbeat.

A newspaper deadbeat is one of the nuisances the restaurant patron has to contend with. Let a man sit down to the table with the daily paper, and there is always some one near who is watching for an opportunity to get his news for nothing. As soon as the paper is laid on the table it is instantly captured with a suave "beg pardon," and the chance for the man who had purchased his paper to gather the news as he enjoys the meal is lost. Courtesy or ordinary politeness prevents a gentleman from resenting such an imposition, and as a consequence there is nothing to do but gracefully submit.

Short Lived.

Chris King, the affable Esquimalt stage driver, purchased a horse at auction this morning for $11. Shortly afterward he hitched it up to a wagon and drove it around the block, and when at the corner of Vancouver and Yates streets, the animal dropped dead.

Naval Demonstration.

The forces of Her Majesty's fleet at Esquimalt will hold a grand demonstration at Colwood on Thursday afternoon. There will be manœuvres and something of a sham battle, and plenty of eatables for the men. Those of our citizens who are not otherwise engaged will be able to put in an enjoyable afternoon viewing the scene.

Appearances are Deceiving.

Mayor Grant came down from the city hall to-day at noon, looking very unconcerned with a small bundle under his arm. For all the world knew he might have been taking his washing to a Chinese laundry, but he wasn't. There was $170,000 in that roll—city debentures—as negotiable as bank notes, which he was taking down town to deliver at the bank.

Boat Found.

On Sunday last an Indian at Beechy Bay picked up a white painted boat in first class condition. It is about ten feet long. There were no oars in it at the time it was found, but four small sticks were lying in the bottom. He has the boat at his house, and if any one has lost such a boat they can get it by making enquiries of Officer Lewis of the provincial police.

A Fine Building.

The contract for Wm. Grimm's new building on Johnson street, above Douglas street, has been awarded. Boddy & Pike will do the stone and brick work, and Sherbourne & Bishop the carpenter work. The building will be three stories and a basement, and a unique feature will be that the first story is to be built entirely of Cobble Hill stone. The cost of the structure approximates $15,000.

Charge Dropped.

E. M. Johnson has decided to drop the charge he intended to make against C. P. Bloomfield, for having game in his possession contrary to law. This ends the matter as far as this affair is concerned.

On the whole, the recent cases for infraction of the game laws have had a salutary effect, and poachers now are thought to be scarce. Still, the authorities are keeping their eyes wide open.

Strowbridge Arrested.

Thomas Strowbridge, the printer who committed a murderous assault upon Robert Todd, a fellow-craftsman, in the Seattle Journal office Friday night, has been arrested and is now in the county jail awaiting the action of the grand jury upon a charge of assault with intent to murder. Strowbridge is well known in this city where he was more distinguished for a capacity for whisky than perhaps anything else.

Inquest.

An inquest was held at six o'clock last evening on the body of Joseph Patterson, who died suddenly at the Vancouver Hotel, on Sunday evening. The jury impanelled by Coroner Jackson, was composed of Messrs. J. A. T. Caton, A. Ross, A. Reid, M. Baker, W. McKay, and S. Leiser. After hearing the evidence of those present at the time of deceased's death, and the professional evidence of Dr. Milne, a verdict of death from natural causes was returned.

Judge Harrison.

Judge Harrison, who was lately appointed to the Nanaimo county court judgeship, from the Cariboo circuit, is at present in Nanaimo making arrangements for a residence, it being his intention to remove his family from Victoria to his new bailiwick. It is probable that he will find it necessary to build on one of the numerous pleasant sites in the suburbs of the Black Diamond City. The people of Nanaimo are pleased at the prospect of having Judge Harrison as a permanent resident, as much for his judicial impartiality and legal attainments as for his many excellent social qualities.

To Replace the Ancon.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company will build a steamship to take the place of the Ancon, wrecked at Loring, August 28. It is the intention to build a good-sized boat of light draft and one in every respect suitable for the Alaskan trade. She will have accommodations for 320 cabin passengers, and staterooms to accommodate not more than two persons. She is to be a propeller, and will be ready for use next season. The steam schooner Al-Ki will leave for the scene of the wreck within a few days to strip the Ancon of her machinery, rigging and furniture. Captain Wallace will go north on either the Corona or the Al-Ki to superintend the work.

The new rooms in A. A. Green's building will be occupied on the 1st of December.

The emperor of Germany has given 5,000 marks ($1,250) toward the erection of a Young Men's Christian Association building in Berlin, Germany.

A Dandy Schooner.

The sealing schooner Sapphire, which now lies moored just above the Custom House, is one of the finest looking vessels in port. Capt. Clarence Cox has given her a coat of shining black paint outside, while the deck fittings have been made brilliant with white and rich green; the decks have been coated with oil and varnish, the spars scraped bright and varnished. With her rigging well set up and a jaunty rake to the masts, she looks a picture to the eye of a nautical man. Last Sunday she flew for the first time a new burgee presented to the schooner by one of her admirers, and many marine men stopped to look at the rakish craft as they passed over the bridge, for her appearance is attractive to say the least. Capt. Cox is justly proud of his fine, staunch vessel, which has netted such a good return during the last season.

ALBERNI'S NEEDS.

A Fertile Spot Which is Isolated From the World.

In a talk with Mr. Geo. Phillips yesterday, that gentleman said to a TIMES reporter that it was a great pity to see Alberni so isolated from a market. The land there is of splendid quality, being of the best for growing purposes, with a climate more mild, if possible, than here. The great drawback seems to be the lack of any way of communicating with the outside world. The settlers had asked that a steamer be subsidized for a trip there once a month, but no notice had been taken by the government of this request.

It was also very evident that if better facilities for transportation are not furnished, that many of the settlers will leave their ranches this fall, and more will soon follow, for it is no use to try and live in such an out of the way place unless something is done to make it accessible. As an evidence of the straits to which the people are driven, it might be mentioned that during Mr. Phillips' stay there the last piece of bacon had been sold from the stores, while flour was becoming rarer every day.

Speaking of his mishap of being lost in the bush, Mr. Phillips said that the trail should be blocked up as it was so bad that it was little better than none, and in fact was even worse, for it led one astray. The trail should be closed and the use of the Nanaimo road made imperative.

JOHNSON STREET SEWER.

Contractor McDonald Explains the Reasons of Delay.

Considerable complaint has been made at the length of time the Johnson street sewer has been left open, and a TIMES reporter meeting Mr. H. H. McDonald, the contractor, this morning asked that gentleman why it was that the lower part had not been sooner completed.

"Because," he said "when Mr. Pickering arrived here a change was made in the plans of the man Lole at the lower end of the street, occasioning considerable delay. The original plans being changed made it necessary to have new patterns made for the castings of the large pipe. Had I been allowed to follow the original specifications, I could have had the work done some days ago."

"Is it true that you have opened up more of the street than you are allowed to by the terms of the contract?"

"No. In the specifications I am allowed to open up 600 feet of the street at once, but I have never even taken that advantage. I also left a crossing open where Store street joins Johnson street, to enable people to pass without trouble."

"But you had some delay about the pipes, had you not?"

"Yes, and I can't understand that the schooner Annie Larsen left San Francisco on the 26th of August for this port. I received a telegram on the 30th of August, from the shippers of the pipe, that she was to leave on that date, but from the San Francisco Examiner I see that she did not clear from that port until the 3rd of September. She may not have left, but I fail to see how such a mistake could have been made."

"Then you don't think people ought to blame you about the length of time."

"No. If I get my contract finished in the time I agreed to do it, there should be no complaint. People can't expect to have sewers made without being put to some inconvenience; still a little reason should be shown. The work will be done on with as soon as possible when the pipes arrive, and I shall rush the work right along. I expect the schooner in any day now. Had the first plans been adhered to, however, I could have laid the lower end of the street finished long ago, and it is over that part of it that the most kicking comes from."

PROVINCIAL COURT.

(Before Robert Ward, J. P., and A. J. Langley, J. P.)

Yar quar-tlas, an Indian, was charged with assaulting another Indian with liquor, such intoxicant not having been supplied in a case of sickness and made use of under sanction of a medical man, or under the direction of a minister of religion. Prisoner pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and $4 costs or two months at hard labor.

Hock Quartz, an Indian, charged with unlawfully and maliciously wounding one Stemolce, another Indian, by biting a piece off the latter's ear. The prisoner pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and $7.50 costs, or one month at hard labor.

Stemolce, an Indian, charged with unlawfully assaulting Yar-quar-tlas, by striking him with his fist. Fined $10 and $4 costs, or two weeks imprisonment.

POLICE COURT.

[Before Hon. A. N. Richards, Q. C.]

Tom, a mild looking native of the forest, paid $5 for indulging too freely in the firewater of the paleface.

A little lad in knickerbockers was charged with stealing a gun nearly as big as himself.

It appears that the little lad and a lot of others had taken the gun and gone out for a shooting trip. After having finished with it the lads hid it in a bush, but the one against whom the charge was brought, had gone to the prosecutor and told him he had taken the gun, and asked to be forgiven, but the prosecutor would not listen to the appeal and in spite of an offer of the lad's father to pay for the gun, allowed that the law must be enforced.

His honor told the prosecutor that there was no reformatory where the boy could be put except in the common jail, and that would be no place to put a little fellow. The law stated that between the ages of seven and fourteen a boy was supposed to legally know whether he had committed a crime or not.

Evidence was taken and the case was dismissed with an order for the boy's father to pay the damages to the gun.
